Investing involves risk, including the risk of loss of principal. VIDI has the same risks as the underlying securities traded on the exchange throughout the day at market price. Redemptions are limited and often commissions are charged on each trade. Investments in non-U.S. securities involve certain risks that may not be present with investments in U.S. securities. For example, non-U.S. investments may be subject to risk of loss due to foreign currency fluctuations or to political or economic instability and may have additional trading, settlement, custodial and operational risks. These factors and others can make investments in the ETF more volatile and potentially less liquid than other types of investments. The ETF may invest in companies organized in emerging market nations which can involve additional risks relating to political, economic or regulatory conditions. The ETF may invest a significant portion of its asset in the securities of companies of a single country or region and therefore it is more likely to be impacted by events or conditions affecting that country or region. The ETF invests in the securities included in, or representative of its Index regardless of their investment merits. The ETF is not actively managed and its performance may be adversely affected by a general decline in the market segments relating to its Index. Because the ETF employs a representative sampling strategy and may also invest up to 20% of its assets in securities that are not included in the Index, the ETF may experience a tracking error to a greater extent than a ETF that seeks to replicate an index. Small and medium-capitalization companies tend to have more limited liquidity and greater price volatility than large-capitalization companies. Certain weightings or breakdowns may not total 100% due to rounding or exclusion of cash from the calculation.

Investor shares are bought and sold at market price (not net asset value or NAV), may trade at a discount or premium to NAV, and are not individually redeemed from a Vident ETF. Ordinary brokerage commissions may apply.

The Vident ETFs' investment adviser is Vident Asset Management. Vident Asset Management owns the indices that each Vident ETF's investment objectives are set against. The Vident ETFs are distributed by ALPS Distributors, LLC. ALPS is not affiliated with Vident Asset Management.

Market Capitalization is the total dollar value of all outstanding shares, calculated by multiplying shares times current market price. Price/earnings is the valuation ratio of a company's current share price compared to its per-share earnings. Price/book is the ratio used to compare a stock's market value to its book value. Price/sales is a ratio for valuing a stock relative to its own past performance, other companies or the market itself. Price/cash flow is the measure of the market's expectations of a firm's future financial health. Vident Core International Equity Index™ (VIEQX) is an index seeking to balance risk across developed and emerging countries and emphasize those with favorable conditions for growth. Unless otherwise noted, index performance reflects no deduction for fees, expenses or taxes. It is not possible to invest directly in an index.

Effective 12.31.2022, the Vident International Equity Fund® has been renamed the Vident International Equity Strategy ETF™. Fund holdings and allocations are subject to change at any time and should not be considered a recommendation to buy or sell any security
